

Surface Mic EAR-2000

Use our surface mic to listen for faint sounds through virtually any solid surface. The probe features a built in contact element and has an internal automatic gain control that does not need constant adjustment. This microphone is designed to convert minute vibrations to voice band audio that can be received by headphones or secondary measurement equipment.

Specifications:

Internal automatic gain control

Built in contact element

Connects to any standard tape recorder

Recorder output is compatible with audio spectrum analyzers

Uses 9V battery (not included)

Includes:

Surface mic unit

Earphones

Carrying case

Instruction manual

Size: 3 3/4 x 2 3/8 x 1